

Corporate relocation agency launches private clients division

NEWS • 05 Nov, 2024

Belgravia-based R3Location now provides personal property search & acquisition services, in addition to its established corporate relo offering.

Well-regarded corporate relocation agency R3Location has launched a new search and acquisition service for individual private clients looking to buy property in Prime Central London.

Set up 2011, Belgravia-based R3 regularly sources high-value accommodation and handles international home moves for key execs at FTSE100 and Fortune 500 companies. The firm is led by Anna Barker and Marco Previero, and covers London and the South East of England.

The new private clients division caters for clients looking for a personal residence, portfolio growth or strategic investment. The team promises “end-to-end guidance that enhances every aspect of the buying journey”, offering “a clear advantage to buyers in today’s highly competitive market.”

“Marco Previero, Head of Research at R3Location: “This isn’t new territory for us; it’s an exciting new service, and a natural extension of what we’ve been doing successfully for years. Our team’s market knowledge and relationships with key players in the industry allow us to help clients secure the best properties in a competitive market. We are pleased to now offer a specialised package that’s all about empowering individuals with the same level of insight, diligence, and care that we’re known for in the sector.”

“Today’s property market continues to be unpredictable, and through our new service, our clientele will benefit from our deep understanding of property and track record of success in the complex landscape of real estate acquisition.”
